If you're using multiple monitors on your current system setup, you know how frustrating it is to go from a multiple-monitor display to a single-monitor display for your remote connection. If so, you'll definitely want to know how you can utilize multiple monitors within Microsoft Windows Remote Desktop Connection.

OPTION ONE

The Use of the ALT+TAB key

With this option the user logs into their work location using the RDP connection and if they need to access their additional monitor the user then needs to press in unison the ALT and TAB keys together. Once they do this a screen will appear with options to select which display they want to access.

OPTION TWO

To Cascade windows

In Windows, you can use the cascade windows option to arrange all open windows to overlap one another with their title bars remaining visible so you can quickly see which windows are open to switch to one. If you have more than one display, your open windows will only cascade on the display that they are open on.

Step 01: Right click or press and hold on the taskbar, and click/tap on Cascade windows or press the D key. To undo the Cascade Right click or press and hold on the taskbar, and click/tap on Undo Cascade all windows or press the U key.
