Alachua County Public Schools holding job fair for teachers

Alachua County Public Schools will be holding a Job Fair for prospective teachers on Wednesday, September 18 and positions may even be offered at the fair to highly-qualified candidates. The district is recruiting for teachers in a wide variety of subjects and specialties.

Principals, assistant principals and district staff will be conducting interviews and providing information about benefits and other perks throughout the event, which will run from 3 to 4:30 p.m. at Alachua County Public Schools District Office at 620 E. University Avenue. Those benefits include quality health insurance, credit for previous teaching experience, stipends for advanced degrees, mentoring and other support and incentives.

"This is an outstanding place in which to teach," said Beverly Finley, supervisor with district's Human Resources office. "We have strong programs within the district to support teachers, and we have a community that really values education."

For more information, call the district's Human Resources office at (352) 955-7727.
