Descriptions

A station cannot begin until ALL campers of the dorm have arrived. Running is encouraged, but make sure no campers are feeling left out. The dorm must show you the banana at the start of each event. One counselor must be running towards the event before it can begin (it's okay for counselors to partially lag behind).

Rules of the Banana: It must be carried at all times. It cannot touch the ground during an activity or else your team must start the activity over again. It can be held in pockets, but not a camper's backpack or bag. Each dorm represents a team. This is a race.

1. Basketball: Each team must get 8 hoops from a specified distance away from the net (Junior campers only need 3). Junior campers can be held, or can rest on shoulders, etc. Regardless, EVERYONE gets a chance to shoot before a team can move on to the next station. Then the dorm can choose who to elect to get the other shots in.

2. Strike a Pose: Each team will need their counselor (or the station leader) to take 5 pictures with props. Props needed: 4 specific eggs, a shoe off a foot, whiteboards/markers for each camper, banana, beach ball. 5 pictures need to be taken, with specific tasks accomplished. Once these 5 pics are done, show the station leader and get them approved. Text these 5 photos to Michelle at 904-525-0068.

First, blow up your beach ball. Then get these 5 poses done!

- i. Four campers smashing eggs into their foreheads. One will be raw, 3 are boiled. Surprise!
EGGS MUST BE VISIBLE for this action shot.

- ii. All campers must be in a circle. The beach ball must be in the air for this action shot AND all campers must have their arms up like they are attempting to catch the ball.
- iii. One camper must hold the banana like it's a telephone, while everyone else points and laughs.
- iv. One person's shoe needs to be off, and held by someone, or visible near the group. Everyone else pretend it's very stinky and make a pose.
- v. Everyone needs to write an uplifting phrase on their whiteboard. Junior campers can write something simple like their name with a smiley face, or "Jesus loves you". Get a picture of the dorm holding up their signs.

3. Water Balloon Chaos: Each dorm must bust open one water balloon using a face, head, or forehead. Everyone can attempt this, if desired. Campers go one water balloon at a time until someone makes it break! Rules may be modified by Ashley, as needed.

THEN after the balloon breaks, campers pair up and toss a water balloon back and forth until one pair makes it 10 steps apart from each other without dropping the balloon from each step backwards. They start toe-to-toe, toss the balloon, then both take a step back until each person has taken ten steps back and the pair successfully caught each step. If the balloon drops, they start over. The group can move on when one group has successfully thrown and caught the balloon from the final distance.

4. Trivia: Each team must correctly answer all the trivia questions (junior campers just need to get ANY 10 correct). These questions and answers will be given only to the activity coordinator. When you answer incorrectly, you will be told what number/s and will have an opportunity to guess again. (Counselors: if many dorms are stuck on this, get an answer key from Juan to grade your dorm's quiz.) Hints may be given to junior campers for TWO questions only. Teens will not receive any hints.

5. Leap Frog Fanatics: Your dorm must perform a leap frog chain from Point A to Point B AND BACK AGAIN TWICE. Campers must start the chain behind the starting line. Campers must also make their last jump right in front of the person at the beginning of the chain. In other words, campers may not jump far to get ahead. Junior campers will have a smaller distance of cones from A to B.

6. Fill the Buckets: The objective is to fill the bucket to the assigned line (lower line is for junior campers). The camper in front will dip a cup into the bucket and hand the cup to the person behind them without moving their feet. This will continue to the last person in line who will run the cup of water over and into the bucket. Then they will become the first person in line and will repeat the process. You're finished when the bucket is filled to your line.

[still 6.] THEN you get in a line again and fill the bucket using a sponge. Just like last round, campers will pass the sponge down the line and the last person will run to fill up the bucket. You're finished when the bucket is filled to the shortest line on the bucket (for all ages).

7. Scripture Reading: In order to pass this task, 3 people in your group must read or speedread the assigned scripture. If more than 10 mistakes are made while reading, you will need to start over! The 3 readers cannot read simultaneously, they go one at a time.

8. Pictionary: Take the envelope for your group and choose three artists from your team (counselors may participate if they wish). Each actor has a word or phrase to draw on a whiteboard. Once all three phrases have been correctly identified, you may move on to the next activity (with coordinator's approval). Arrows, symbols, and numbers may be used. Words and letters may not be written on the drawings.

9. Wheel Barrow Race: Campers need to be in partners, with a total of 6 participating making three pairs. This relay race puts one camper on the ground walking with their hands, while the other camper lifts the legs in the air to make a "wheel barrow". You can finish the activity when your last group crosses the finish line with their hands. Two pairs will start on one cone, and the other pair will start on the other end: first pair goes to the cone, tags in second pair, then third pair goes to cone. (See cones for junior and teen groups.)

10. Group Picture: Your team has done so well and we are all very proud! You have two things to do before you can finish: eat an Oreo and eat a banana.

Oreo: Put an Oreo on top of your head. Without using your hands, get the Oreo to fall in your mouth, then eat it. You can have everyone attempt this or a handful, but keep reusing the Oreo even if it drops!

Banana: A maximum of two people eat the banana once the activity coordinator inspects it. The first-place team collects a prize and we get a group photo! Then you are dismissed to clean up and relax to get ready for the rest of the day. Official results will be disclosed at dinner.

All must end at station 10 to eat the banana and get their picture taken.
